ART MAJOR

The Art Department provides students with the study of both the principles and practices of studio art, graphic design, and art history such that the student experience in art is active, significant, and informed. Students studying art will develop an in-depth understanding of the visual arts and participate in focused creative work in order to prepare them for active and intelligent involvement in the creative life of our global culture.

Any student enrolled at the College may take introductory level studio art courses (100 level). Art history classes of any level can be taken without prerequisites, although ART 131-132 is recommended. Supply fees are charged for each studio course. Exhibitions of student work are held throughout the year at the instructor's discretion. Field trips and out-of-class events may be required for some classes. The art major usually requires six consecutive semesters in an emphasis. Students are advised to begin the course of study at the beginning of their freshman year, if possible, but no later than their sophomore year. All art majors must have an art advisor to help facilitate progress in the major. Successful completion of the portfolio review is required of all sophomore and new transfer art majors at the end of the fall semester for continuation in the major.

ART MAJOR—GRAPHIC DESIGN EMPHASIS

Students in the graphic design emphasis will learn techniques and theories of visual communication through the development of aesthetic awareness, cognitive thinking, and conceptual problem solving. Students will learn graphic design processes involving traditional media and computer-based technologies.

COMMUNICATION STUDIES MAJOR

The communication studies major is designed for students who wish to pursue careers in any professional setting requiring proficiency in and understanding of communication. These careers include, but are not limited to, advertising executive, public relations officer, magazine editor, art/curator, administrator, human resources specialist, journalist, lawyer, fashion/retail manager, sales associate, sports announcer, news anchor, weather reporter, college student personnel, teacher, political analyst and campaign director, press secretary, television news director, and nonprofit organization director. All students follow a common core curriculum distributed over their four-year course of study. They also choose one of four emphases: Communication and Social Influence, Electronic Media Studies, Public Relations, or Convergent Journalism for a total of forty-two credit hours. As part of their coursework, students participate regularly and actively in experiential learning including writing for the campus newspaper, producing programming for campus television, creating and presenting scholarly work at academic conferences, and engage in service learning, internships, and leadership opportunities.

COMMUNICATION STUDIES MAJOR—COMMUNICATION AND SOCIAL INFLUENCE EMPHASIS

Students selecting this emphasis are usually planning to enter careers where communication skills are essential, such as human resource manager, college admissions and enrollment specialist, sales associate, politician/political consultant, press secretary, art curator/administrator, fashion/retail merchandiser, lawyer, or teacher. Students will learn the theory and practice of effective communication by oral, written, and electronic means, with an emphasis on critical and analytical thought. Student work will be presented orally, electronically, in research papers, and special projects.

MUSIC MAJOR

Within the liberal arts framework, both the music major and the music education major offer a Bachelor of Arts degree, intended for students who wish a broad education in music. In addition, the music education major (instrumental or vocal emphasis) is intended for students who wish to become music educators. Students are expected to have a high level of musical competence in performance of their major instrument.

Teacher Licensure in Music

Students who seek an endorsement in music education must complete the courses for a major in music education and take additional courses to meet teaching certification requirements. Students may prepare to teach PK-12 vocal/general music or PK-12 instrumental music. They either specialize in 1) instrumental music in which the student's primary performance medium is usually an orchestral instrument or 2) choral and general music in which the student's primary performance medium is voice or the student may opt to pursue both specializations. Many students choose electives in the specialization which is not their main focus so they can prepare to meet professional challenges.

Admission to the Music Major

Freshmen who express interest in majoring/minoring in music or music education should follow the appropriate music curriculum and receive advising from the Music department chair. Students apply for sophomore promotion (major standing jury) during their sophomore year of study. A successful sophomore promotion will result in admission to the music major.

Transfer students who enter Lynchburg College with sixty or more accepted credits must apply for promotion during their first semester at the College. Approval for major standing may be granted after that first semester or the music faculty may defer final action until the end of the student's second semester of study. With the exception of transfer students who enter Lynchburg College with sixty credits or more, no deferrals on major standing are given after the student has completed seventy credits.

Sophomore Promotion (Major Standing Jury)

Students majoring in music must successfully complete a qualifying review by the music faculty at the end of the sophomore year. Major standing juries for the Bachelor of Arts in music and music education occur after the final week of classes each semester.

The jury will consist of a performance on the student's major instrument. Several pieces should be fully prepared from which the jury can select two pieces to hear. The result of a major standing jury may be 1) approval, 2) deferral, or 3) denial.

THEATRE MAJOR

The theatre major has been designed for students who wish to pursue careers in an array of arts, entertainment, and teaching areas. Graduates will be qualified for professional entry-level jobs, and as strong candidates for graduate and professional schools. The core theatre major exists for those students wishing to double major or for broad exposure to the totality of theatre art. Students may also select an emphasis in performance, design-technology, or theatre education.

The performance emphasis focuses on an integrative process that sets an actor in motion physically, verbally, and emotionally, leading to creative and informed choices in character development and dramatic texts.

The design/technical emphasis focuses on the development of the artistic abilities required for production in theatre arts. Students learn theory and skills in the areas of lighting, sound, scenery, props, stage management, and other related positions.

Students actively apply their classroom education by participating in the College's main stage theatre productions, student-generated productions in the studio theatre, dance concerts, and through scenic, lighting, costume, and box-office student employment opportunities. Majors are also encouraged to study in other disciplines in the School of Communication and the Arts. Students regularly interview, audition for, and find work in professional summer theatres. Internship opportunities are available for highly qualified students. Auditions and backstage opportunities in productions are open to all students regardless of major or year.

Teacher Licensure in Theatre Arts (PK-12)

Students who seek an endorsement in theater arts must complete the courses for a major in theatre performance, complete the secondary education minor, and take an additional course (THEA 311 Directing) to meet teaching requirements. Contact the School of Education and Human Development for a Secondary Education Minor advisor.
