History
The University of Lynchburg was founded as Virginia Christian College in 1903 by Josephus and Sarah Hopwood, pioneers in Christian coeducation. They established one of the oldest coeducational colleges in Virginia with the support of ministers and businessmen associated with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), a denomination that welcomes dialogue with people of all faiths.

While serving as president of Milligan College in Tennessee, Dr. Hopwood was approached about starting a college in Lynchburg, Virginia, on the site of a former resort, the Westover Hotel. Impressed by the resort’s setting, Dr. Hopwood declared, “Boys, we’ll take it.” He purchased the site on April 18, 1903, his 60th birthday.

The stately, gray hotel was renamed Westover Hall, and it served as a multi-purpose facility with dormitories, offices, classrooms, dining hall, and a chapel. The College began its first year with 11 faculty members and 55 students, and the first graduating class consisted of five men and three women. Today, University of Lynchburg has 190 full-time faculty members and more than 2,800 undergraduate and graduate students from throughout the United States and around the world.

In 1909, the College completed construction on the first academic building, Main Hall (later named Hopwood Hall), and Carnegie Hall, a men’s residence hall partially funded by a gift from industrialist and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie. A decade later, Virginia Christian College changed its name to Lynchburg College, a reflection of its student recruitment and fundraising expanding beyond Virginia.

The campus master plan envisioned buildings in an elliptical pattern around the Dell. Hopwood Hall (1909) and Snidow Chapel (1966) were built at the east and west ends of the ellipse, symbolizing Dr. Hopwood’s guiding principles of faith and reason. Schewel Hall (2005, originally Centennial Hall) completed the ellipse.

The period from 1964 to 1983 saw the largest building expansion in the institution’s history, increasing the number of major buildings on campus from nine to 19. The academic program grew in that same period, and the first graduate programs were added in 1964. The growth in the academic program was a major step in the College’s evolution to a university.

In 1998, Claytor Nature Center was created on a farm in Bedford County, donated by the late A. Boyd Claytor III. Used for research, education, and recreation, the 491-acre center is home to the Belk Observatory, an education building, an herbarium, an eco-lodge, a campsite, and hiking trails.

In 2003, Lynchburg College partnered with the nation of St. Lucia, and has offered educational opportunities to St. Lucian students on the Virginia campus, on the Caribbean island, and online.

The University entered a new phase of growth beginning in 2003. In addition to major projects such as the construction of Schewel Hall and the $12 million renovation of the Drysdale Student Center (2014), the University extended campus housing to include many homes in the surrounding neighborhood, as well as new, on-campus townhouses. Additionally, several sustainability programs have helped the university protect the environment even as it has grown.

In 2011, Lynchburg College entered into a partnership with Historic Sandusky, a nearby historic home known for its role in the Civil War Battle of Lynchburg. The University now owns and operates the historic site.

In 2007, the Board of Trustees adopted a plan to pursue more graduate health sciences programs. The faculty soon approved the Doctor of Physical Therapy program, the institution’s first doctoral program. Today the University also offers a Doctor of Education in Leadership Studies and a Doctor of Medical Science, one of the first doctoral degrees for physician assistants in the U.S. The University also offers 14 master’s degree programs and several graduate certificates.

While expanding its graduate programs and pre-professional offerings, the institution has maintained its commitment to the liberal arts, believing that the two areas of study support one another. In 2017, the faculty passed a major revision to general education, streamlining requirements and calling for the creation of new, interdisciplinary seminar courses.

The varsity athletic program includes 21 teams for men and women, which have won more than 120 Old Dominion Athletic Conference championships. In 2014, the women’s soccer team won the NCAA Division III championship, the first team national championship in the history of the University. Students also enjoy intramural and club sports for men and women.

The institution is nationally recognized for offering quality educational opportunities while building the character and the leadership ability of its students. The University of Lynchburg is one of only 46 colleges nationwide to be included in Loren Pope’s Colleges That Change Lives and one of about 60 institutions nationwide selected to participate in the Bonner Leader Program.

In October 2016, the Board of Trustees adopted Vision 2020, a strategic plan focused on making the institution a national leader in student engagement in academics, athletics, and leadership. It calls for new investment in facilities and infrastructure, as well as academic and athletic programs.

A few months later, the Board voted to change the institution’s name to University of Lynchburg, acknowledging more than a century of growth and evolution. The University of Lynchburg continues to lead the way in educational opportunities, standing as a tribute to the Hopwoods’ pioneering spirit.

The Campus

Located in the heart of Lynchburg on 264 acres, University of Lynchburg’s beautifully landscaped campus is a showplace. More than 40 buildings, many of Georgian style architecture, grace the campus with the Blue Ridge Mountains forming the western skyline. Nearby are athletic fields and tennis courts.

The Health Sciences building on Monticello Avenue is a 5 minute walk from the main campus and houses the Doctor of Physical Therapy and Masters of Physician Assistant Medicine programs.

A small lake is bordered by wooded hills and part of an original forest of oak, hickory, poplar, pine, and dogwood.

The 491-acre Claytor Study Center in Bedford County sits at the foot of the Blue Ridge with a spectacular view of the Peaks of Otter.
