Students need to learn early about economics, our economy, and their role in it. If you had funding to help teach your students how to be an informed participant in our economy, what would you do? The Center for Economic Education and Grow One are looking for teachers who can make a little money go a long way.

Through the Center for Economic Education at Lynchburg College, mini-grants are being offered to Central Virginia teachers who submit the most promising ideas.

Please submit mini-economy grant applications by January 29, 2016. Recipients will receive their checks in the mail within three weeks after the deadline. A brief follow-up report should be submitted by all mini-grant recipients by June 30, 2016. Please mark your calendars.
