

Weekly Westover

STAY IN THE LOOP

WESTOVERS ON STAGE

This past Thursday the University of Lynchburg Theatre Department presented the opening night of their spring performance of Curtains, The Musical Comedy Whodunnit. In this 2 act show, a musical cast is faced with the overwhelming task of salvaging their production from total failure, as well as an even greater challenge: surviving the threats of murder on their stage. An unlikely Detective takes over their case to determine the perpetrator, and simultaneously makes improvements to the performance.

Westover students Elizabeth Martin, Jenna Bohrer, and Parker Jones acted as three of the leading characters. Colin Coviello, Brianna Yancey, and Tiernan Harcourt-Brooke, sang and danced in the ensemble. Malik Nowlin and Hannah Chapman played in the orchestra. All gave an exceptional performance that brought the audience laughs, smiles, and surprises.

FOLLOW US:

Snapchat:

@lcwestovers

Instagram &

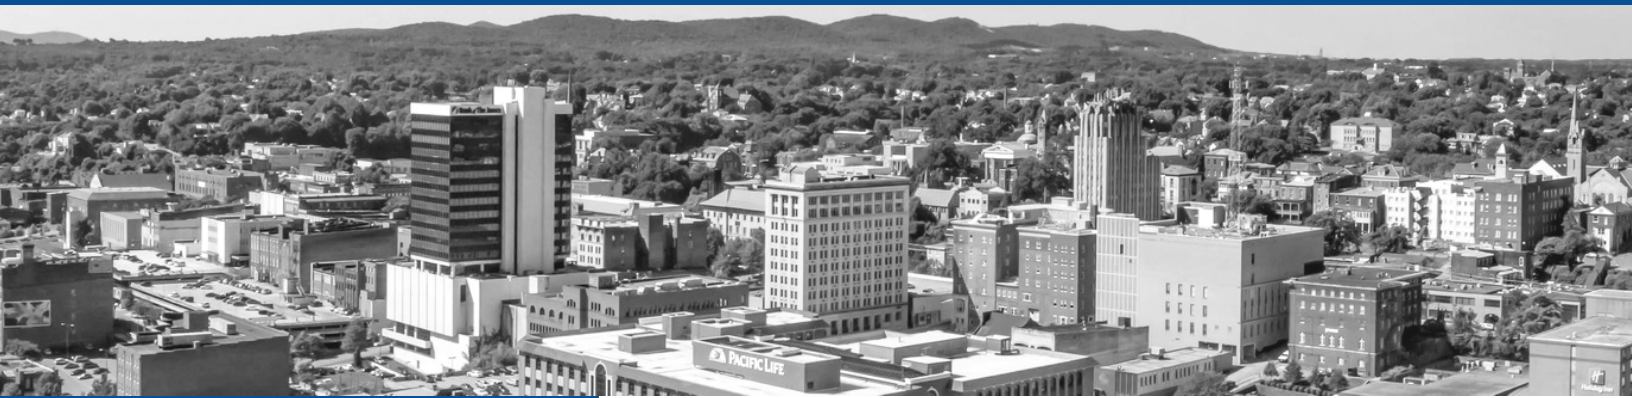

twitter:

@westoverhonors

Linkedin:

Westover Honors
Society

CULTURAL EVENTS:

-UL Sangha

Tuesdays & Thursdays

5PM Hopwood Steps

-Senior Symposium:

Memorialization &
Reparation

12PM Mar 4

Sydnor Performance Hall

-Jenny Cutler Schumate
Lecture

7:30PM Mar 4

Snidow Chapel

-John M. Turner Lecture: US
Women in STEM

7:30PM Mar 5

Hall Campus Ballroom

-High School Art Reception

6PM Mar 6

Dillard Lobby

WOMENS TRACK: ODAC CHAMPIONS

At around 10:30pm on Sunday, February 24 the University of Lynchburg Womens track team arrived home to ring the historic bell tower, signifying their championship win of the Old Dominion Athletic Conference. Westover students Endasia Mitchell, Kaitlyn Johnson, and Jody Caretti all had a role on this championship team.

Jody Caretti says that the team is like "being a part of the biggest support group in the world." She describes the moment they actually received the trophy as being surreal and she feels honored to be able to be a part of such an amazing team even as a freshman.

Senior Endasia Mitchell, who runs sprints and jumps, describes how she was proud of the effort that everyone put in and how great it was to win in reward of that. Long distance runner Kaitlyn Johnson says that her favorite part of the team is how supportive everyone is, regardless of what event area they are in.

When asked how they manage to balance Westover responsibilities with being a year round collegiate athlete, they all expressed the importance of time management and having the accountability of wanting to be there for your team.

